

What's the aim of the Cautious Plan and who is it for?

The aim of the Cautious Plan is to achieve returns above the UK inflation rate. Investing always involves some level of risk, and movement up and down in value is to be expected. With the Cautious Plan, our aim is to limit the extent of these movements, but there is still a risk that you may get back less than invested.

The Cautious Plan is suitable for investors who aim to grow their money slowly and steadily, and are happy to take on small amounts of risk, as they are more focused on preventing losses than making large gains.

Investing should be part of a long-term savings strategy and whilst money can be withdrawn at any time, investing for less than 5 years is unlikely to be appropriate.

What makes the Cautious Plan different?

The example below shows a typical mix of investments for a Cautious Plan, but it can hold between 0% and 20% high-risk investments (Commodities, Emerging Market Bonds, Private Equity, Shares and Property), with the remainder in low-risk investments (Bonds, Cash, and Cash Equivalents).

Benchmarking

The Cautious Plan performance is measured against the UK Consumer Prices Index EU Harmonized Index. This measures UK inflation through the cost of goods and services to consumers. There may be times when UK inflation is very high and if this happens the Cautious Plan may significantly underperform against its benchmark.

Risk of loss

With investing, there's always a chance that investments can go down in value. In a one-year period, there's a 5% chance you may lose more than 3.09% of the value of a Cautious plan. This is not a maximum loss, and losses in the future may be greater.
