

What's the aim of the Tentative Plan and who is it for?

The aim of the Tentative Plan is to generate reasonable growth over the longer term. Investing always involves some level of risk and movement up and down in value is to be expected.

The Tentative Plan is suitable for investors who prioritise limiting losses over high returns, and are willing to see moderate movements up and down in the value to try and get reasonable growth from their investments. But there is still a risk that you could get back less than invested.

Investing should be part of a long-term savings strategy and whilst money can be withdrawn at any time, investing for less than 5 years is unlikely to be appropriate for a Tentative Plan.

What makes the Tentative Plan different?

The example below shows a typical mix of investments for a Tentative Plan, but it can hold between 30% and 55% high-risk investments (Commodities, Emerging Market Bonds, Private Equity, Shares and Property), with the remainder in low-risk investments (Bonds, Cash, and Cash Equivalents).

The chart above shows the range for the Tentative Plan, which can include a minimum of 45% low risk assets and a minimum of 30% high risk assets.

Benchmarking

The Tentative Plan performance is measured against the ARC Cautious PCI. The PCI is a peer group benchmark which shows how other companies' plans with similar risk profiles have performed. The indices are based on real performance numbers from hundreds of other Plans.
